

SERVICE LEARNING – FALL 2017 – FACTSHEET FOR STUDENTS

THE PĀLOLO PIPELINE PROGRAM

ADMINISTERED THROUGH ACCESS ENGAGEMENT

2450 CAMPUS ROAD, DEAN HALL 5-7, HONOLULU, HI 96822, 808 956 0655

CALENDAR: <http://servicelearning.socialsciences.hawaii.edu/palolocal.html>

THE PĀLOLO PIPELINE PROGRAM (PPP) is an umbrella program involving a large number of partners in and around the urban Pālolo Valley in East Honolulu. Our goal is to improve education and quality of life for the residents of the housing areas located in the valley by continuing to sustain and develop our pipeline of educational support.

The program builds on dedicated work and long-established relationships between institutions, groups, and individuals, including the three institutions of higher education surrounding the valley: Kapiʻolani Community College, Chaminade University of Hawaiʻi, and University of Hawaiʻi at Mānoa. Our key resources are community members and diverse groups of service-learning students and faculty.

With a strong emphasis on the STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math) disciplines and sustainability, we work to provide lifelong learning opportunities, including improving early childhood education and mentoring students through the educational system from home through pre-school and school to institutions of higher education and beyond. The Pālolo Pipeline Program continues to serve as a model for work in similar underserved communities nationwide.

Prioritize our local community and make Pālolo part of your teaching, learning, research, and community engagement

SERVICE-LEARNING STUDENTS IN HIGHER EDUCATION

HOW TO GET STARTED

1. Take care of your instructor's and your home campus' requirements for doing service learning (likely registration & release forms)
2. Send an email to csssl@hawaii.edu introducing yourself and explaining your interest in working in Pālolo in general and/or with a specific PPP site/project. Include when you are available on a weekly basis, name, student ID#, home institution of higher education, class, instructor, email address, and phone number; relevant special skills and experience – and attach a resume, if you have. You are also welcome to call us for clarifications, but we need the introductory email, which we share with the on-site coordinators.
3. Register online for service learning with PPP here: <https://goo.gl/forms/WOwgBlRQW5Lt70k1> and take action on other instructions that you receive in our reply to your email.
4. Meet your site coordinator in Pālolo for an interview and initial training (see scheduled training times above – all partners also provide individual training). Bring your institution's site agreement and time sheet - as well as a picture ID (student ID best).
5. You are now ready to start your service in Pālolo. Enjoy and learn (:
